PERHAPS ſome of your correſpondents will be kind enough to inform us in ſome future paper what this article of Intelligence once and again repeated in the public prints means, "The great object of Parliament ſeems to be, to employ every conſtitutional meaſure to ſecure the dependence of the colonies on the crown of Great Britain." If this ſentence is to be taken in its plain and obvious ſenſe, and has any real foundation, 'tis great pity that auguſt aſſembly ſhould ſuffer ſuch an impoſition, as to be perſuaded they need ſpend one thought on that Cervantic ſubject. There never was a time ſince the firſt European ſet Foot on the continent, wherein the colonies, from one end to the other, more cheerfully & affectionately acknowledged their dependance on the crown of Great Britain. Never were a people more in love with their King, and the conſtitution by which he has ſolemnly engaged to govern them. George the third is the darling of America: Mr. Pitt, Mr. Conway, Col. Barre, and every gentleman, without exception, who had honeſty enough to adviſe the preſervation of the Britiſh empire from inevitable deſtruction, are revered as tutelar deities.—Lord Colvil, who was once miſjudged an enemy, received all the ſatisfaction a generous mind could wiſh, and ſo would Mr. G——le, if his future conduct ſhould manifeſt that he repented him of the calamity his meaſures brought upon this people.——

But Americans it ſeems are not only to acknowledge their dependence on the crown as they always have, and hope forever will, but muſt (if ſome gentlemen have their will) ſwear alligeance to the Britiſh Parliament, and recognize their unlimitted right both of legiſlation and taxation. This motion indeed ſeems new to Americans, who have been taught from their infancy to conceive that the ſupreme power of Great Britain, in all her wide dominions, reſided equally in the three ſtates, King, Lords, and People, by a conſtitution as fairly ſettled, as perfectly limited, as explicitly declared and ſolemnly recognized, as any thing could be done by mankind; and that on the unſhaken baſis of natural juſtice and common ſafety; being not only the conſtitution of Britain, but of human nature in general, of which no man can of right be deprived, (remaining virtuous) even by his own conſent.—Some politicians indeed tell us of deriving theſe and thoſe rights and privileges from the crown, and in ſome caſes it is allowed that the people as a collective body have put ſome things into the hands of their ſovereign to be by him diſtributed to individuals, as lands, waters, &c. yet if theſe be wantonly laviſhed by bad miniſters on undeſerving perſons, we find people murmuring as if ſenſibly injured, which ſhews that even Majeſty, is held a reſponſible truſtee of the rights of the people, and that the confidence repoſed, ariſes from a preſumption, that the King can have no intereſt ſeperate from his ſubjects.——

In Britain and Ireland, the Peers ſeem ſo many hereditary petty princes, each concerned for his own intereſt and territory, and therefore juſtly admitted to a voice in any national act that may affect them; and ſhall an American, be his property what it will, have no voice in acts that affect both perſon and property to the foundation? Has not every Parliament on the continent an Houſe of Lords as well as thoſe of Britain and Ireland? And if Lords in Britain be the King's hereditary counſellors, thoſe who are at the ſpecial election of the crown may be ſuppoſed more dependent, ſo that the Crown may be ſaid to have three negatives in affairs of the colonies; and the Commons of the united kingdoms of England and Scotland, ſeem to inſiſt on forcing away the other——How ſtrange an attempt! One part of the people would raviſh from the other, a right without which they confeſs life itſelf would be a misfortune.—The people of Britain and Ireland who live near their ſovereign, and among their noble Peers, and can addreſs either with their grievances when they pleaſe, will not truſt an hair of their heads or farthing of their eſtates to their diſpoſal, and yet talk of treating America like rebels, unleſs they ſurrender the whole to the mercy of Gentlemen with whom they have no ſpecial connection, and can as little controul, as the ſtars in their courſes!—Are we brethren thus to be baſtardized and alienated from the common wealth of human nature? Are not the Americans people, and ſhall ſuch a body of people be deſtroyed, unleſs they tamely yield up a right which yourſelves would maintain againſt every power on earth to the laſt drop of your blood? Conſider, if miſchief befal us, our blood will be required at your hands, as we can by no means recede one atom. Theſe ſchemes may appear light to you, but muſt be death to us if ye inſiſt on forcing them; and how long ye will ſurvive our downfal may be worth your conſideration. Tho' many deſigning men have repreſented us as a raſh unſtable mob, there be thouſands among us and yourſelves, who know we are a deliberate determined people, to whom death with all its terrors would be a pleaſing alternative when ſet againſt ſlavery. The Bill of rights is our ſpecial ſecurity that we ſhall be governed by no law to which we do not conſent in our own perſons or repreſentatives by us elected for that purpoſe; and never ſhall we part with the goodly inheritance while we poſſeſs a drop of the blood derived from the heroes who committed to us the ineſtimable legacy.——

SOBRIUS.

LONDON, July 31.

A patent is passing the great seal, appointing William Spry, Esq; Governor of the Island of Barbadoes.

The Industry, of Liverpool, Capt. Eskine, late commander, is arrived at that port from Africa. On the 25 of March last, an insurrection happened on board among the slaves, on the windward coast of Africa; some of them having got off their irons they immediately fell on the Captain and four others, whom they killed; the second mate and cooper saved their lives by concealing themselves in the hold; the negroes preserving one of the men as a pilot, to make the shore, which having gained, they all fled except four, which the mate and cooper perceiving, they pursued and recovered about 12 out of 137.

PHILADELPHIA, September 28.

Capt. Somerville, in the Ship Orange-Bay, from London, informs us, That he sailed from thence on the 19th of July, but did not leave the Downs before the first of August—That, on the 22d of July, at Margate, he spoke the Betsey, Captain Lech, from this Port, bound to London—And on the 20th Inst. about 20 Leagues to the Southward of Cape Henlopen, he fell in with the Schooner, Lilly, Capt. Smith, bound from South-Carolina to New-York, which he supplied with Bread and Beef, as the Capt. had been obliged to bear away for Virginia, by Want of Provisions.——There were three Men on board this Schooner who belonged to a New-York Sloop, lately cast away on the Coast of Carolina.

The unfortunate Persons who were lost with the Brig Sally, of this Port, were, Captain Anthony Mabary, Humphry Mars, Tate, Joseph Sherver, Samuel Bess, John Burna, and Peter Toy, Mariners.——The three Mariners who were saved, are Alexander Landerry, Peter Mayes, and William Hammon.

NEW-YORK, October 1.

The following extraordinary Attestation of the Coroner of Bergen County, was communicated by a Gentleman of such Credit, as leaves not the least Doubt of its being genuine.

ON the Twenty-Second Day of September, in the Year of our Lord, 1767; I JOHANNES DEMAREST, Coroner of the County of Bergen and Province of New-Jersey, was present at a View of the Body of one Nicholas Teurs, then lying dead, together with the Jury, which I summoned to inquire of the Death of the said Nicholas Teurs. At that Time a Negro Man, named Harry, belonging to Hendrick Christians. Zabriskie, was suspected of having murdered the said Tuers, but there was no Proof of it, and the Negro denied it; I asked him if he was not afraid to touch Tuers? He said No, he had not hurt him, and immediately came up to the Corpse then lying in the Coffin; and then Staats Storm, one of the Jurors, said, "I am not afraid of him, and stroked the dead Man's Face, with his Hand," which made no Alteration in the dead Person, and (as I did not put any Faith in any of those Trials) my Back was turned towards the dead Body, when the Jury ordered the Negro to touch the dead Man's Face with his Hand, and then I heard a Cry in the Room of the People, saying, "He is the Man," and I was desired to come to the dead Body; and was told that the said Negro Harry, had put his Hand on Tuer's Face, and that the Blood immediately ran out at the Nose of the dead Man Tuers.—I saw the Blood on his Face, and ordered the Negro to rub his Hand again on Tuers's Face, he did so, and immediately the Blood again ran out of said Tuers's Nose at both Nostrils, near a common Table Spoonful at each Nostril, as well as I could judge —Whereupon the People all charged him with being the Murderer, but he denied it for a few Minutes, and then confessed that he had murdered the said Nicholas Tuers, by first striking him on the Head with an Ax, and then driving a Wooden Pin in his Ear; tho' afterwards he said he struck a second Time with his Ax, and then held him fast till he had done struggling,—when that was done, he awaked some of the Family and said Tuers was dying, (he believed.)

JOHANNES DEMAREST, Cor.

Township of Hackinsack, N. Barbadoes, Sept. 28.

In the Night of the 11th Instant, a Labourer, named Lawrence Towrs, was murder d at a House in Hackinsack, New-Jersey, by a Negro Man that lodged in the same House: He knocked out his Brains first with the Rung of a Cart, and afterwards drove a small Plug of Wood in one of his Ears. The Fellow was taken up next Morning, and confessed the Whole; and said the Reason he committed the Murder was, that he formerly had livid at that House, and thought if he could dispatch poor Towrs, he would get his old Birth, which it seems he liked better than the one he then had: He is now in close Confinement.

On Sunday arrived here the Ship New-Edward, Capt. Thomas Miller, from London, which Place he left the 23d of July, and the Land the 8th of August, in Company with the Hope, Capt. Davies of and for this Port: The Edward and the Hope are full Ships, as most of the Orders that were sent home were completed as soon as the Merchants there had received Advice that our Assembly had made such ample Provision for his Majesty's Troops in this Province, and with which we are told the King, his Ministry, and the Nation in general, seem well pleased; and that had the News reached Great-Britain a Month sooner than it did, a certain Act would not have received the Royal Assent.

Sir JOHN JOHNSON (Son of Sir WILLIAM JOHNSON, Bart.) and many other Passengers, came over in the Edward.

Capt. Berton's Passengers were in London in 21 Days after they left this Port.

Capt. Boyd left Falmouth the 5th of August, and the Duke Packet had sailed from thence the 23d of July for this Place.——He brings a Confirmation of the Loss of the Ship Hero, Captain Henderson, of this Port, on the Hext Bank on the Coast of Holland; the People's Lives saved.

The Ship Hibernia, Captain Branyan, arrived here last Wednesday Night, in 21 Days from South-Carolina, where he carried about 200 Irish Protestants, to settle in the back Parts of that Province.

Captain Henry, in 36 Days from Jamaica, on this Coast, spoke with a Whaler, from Darmouth, New-England, that had been 7 Weeks out, and got one Fish.

Captain Merchant, sailed one Day before Capt. Henry, for this Port.

Wednesday Afternoon arrived here Capt. White, in a Brig, in 7 Weeks from Lisbon: On the 21st of August last, in Lat. 28, Lon. 47, he fell in with the Wreck of a Brig laden with Lumber, both her Main and Foremast standing; but every Thing that was moveable appeared to have been carried off, even her Pump-Spars were out of the Pumps: she had a Horse-head painted black and white, some Images and carv'd Work on her Stern, painted in the same Manner; tarry Sides, and yellow Mouldings, the Rails and other Places painted red: He imagined her to be a Northern built Vessel, and seemed to have been some Time under Water.

Wednesday last Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt, of Staten-Island, was found dead, on the Road, leading from the Court-House, and 'tis supposed he either went off in a Fit, or killed himself by a Fall from his Horse.

The Snow Venus, Captain Robinson, from the Bay, for Holland, as mentioned in our last to have been on the Colleradoes, is arrived here, and we hear she must be unloaded before she can proceed on her Voyage.

On Monday last the Ship Hope, Captain Davis, in 7 Weeks and 5 Days from England, arrived here. He left the Downs July 27, 1767, in company with the Edward, Captain Miller, above mentioned; the Hannah, Jarvis; and Britannia, Daverson; for Boston, and about 50 Sail for the Streights and West-Indies, most of which had lain there three Weeks, Wind-bound. 'Twas the 5th of August before he got clear of the Land, and by contrary Winds and bad Weather, the 25th before he got to the Westward of the Western Islands; at which Time found his Fore-mast so sprung, that he could not carry the Fore-top-sail in a head Sea; which made it five Weeks before he got to the Banks of Newfoundland.—He spoke to the following Ships in his Passage.—In Lat, 49 Long. 11, with the London-Packet, William Bennet, from New-London; in Lat. 15. a Ship from Virginia, bound for Glasgow; and in Lat. 22. a large French Ship from St. Domingo, bound to Bourdeaux; also a Brig and a Sloop in company, on the Banks, on a whaling Voyage, belonging to Nantucket;—He had contrary Winds and Calms, this Week past, that kept him from getting in with the Land, which he made the 27th Inst.

[Captain Davis has been so obliging as to write out a Number of the latest Articles of Intelligence, that occurred before he left England, and on the Passage; all of which, that we have not already published, we shall insert from his Notes, tho' some of them have been mentioned in our Papers,—but not so circumstantially.]

July 11th, 1767, Captain Brown in a Ship from the Bay of Honduras, bound to Rotterdam, saw a three Deck Ship ashore on the Martyrs, June 3d. but could not learn who he was; he also brings the News of a violent Earthquake being at Truxillo, on the Spanish-Main.

July 12th, the Mary, Capt. Stewart, from New-York, is arrived at Corke, also the Industry; Capt. Shepardson is arrived at Genoa, from the said Port.

July 16th, The Hero, Captain Henderson, from the Bay of Honduras, is lost on the Coast of Holland.

Lord Clive has brought over and presented to his Majesty, as a Present from the Nabob, a fine Sword set with Diamonds, worth £. 10,000. a Pearl Necklace for her Majesty, worth £. 150,000; also a large Diamond worth £. 100,000, and sundry other valuable Curiosities;—His Lordship made his Physician a Present of £. 4000, for his great Care of him in the Voyage; and gave twenty Guineas to the Man that first saw the British Land. His Lordship also paid his Compliments to the Court of Directors at the East-India House, and was received in the most cordial and polite Manner; afterwards he set out with his Lady, to their Seat on Blackheath. It is said his Fortune, with his late Acquisitions, is now worth £. 80,000, per Annum, which is more than any Man possesses in England.

The elegant Crown made by Mr. Cox, a Jeweller, and sent as a Present by his Lordship to the Nabob, from the India Company, was vastly approved of, and the Value of it was £. 14,000,—The Nabob has sent them in return, a Present worth £. 75,000 Sterling. It is said the India Company have agreed to give the Government, £. 400,000, per Annum, for three Years, or half their Profit in Trade for that Time, which ever shall be most agreeable.

The Votes that came by the Packet of the Assembly of New-York, gave very great Satisfaction, and the People in general were glad to hear they had so far agreed to furnish the Troops as was intended by Parliament, many of which are to be transported back again to Ireland.

Several Dispatches are sent to the Colonies in answer to many received, and the Merchants in the North-America Trade are come to a Resolution to ship Goods as usual; also Rice is imported Duty free from America, between May and December, 1767. The Island of Dominica, solicits for a greater and more extensive Trade for English Manufactories.

A Plan is laid before the Government for sending to East-Florida, Felons of either Sex, convicted for Transportation, as at this Time many are under that Sentence.

By an Account lately taken, it appears that there are near 18,000 Papist, most of them poor miserable People, about St. Giles's Parish, and that Neighbourhood; many of their Priests lurk about that and other Parts of the Town, whose chief Support is by marrying them for a few Shillings.—Circular Letters are issuing out to the Clergy of every Diocess, enjoyning them to send a List of all Papists within their respective Parishes, which Lists are to be given into the House of Lords, the next ensuing Sessions.

The Right Honourable the Earl of Bute has sent all his Deer from his Park in Bedfordshire, to other Parts, and has stockt the same with Calves, in order to produce a Breed of fine large Oxen; also another Gentleman in Hertfordshire, has followed the above laudable Example, introduced with a View of reducing the present exorbitant Price of Beef, for the Benefit of the Poor.

His Majesty is going to take a View of all the Dock-Yards in England, this Summer, as several fine Men of War are on the Stocks, in most of the Yards, also many of the old Ships are for Sale, and more new ones to be built.

On Tuesday last arrived here, the Lord Cambden, from Liverpool, Le Chevalier Dean, Master, in 8 Weeks Passage. Capt. Miller, spoke the following Vessels on the Passage—15th September, spoke the Brig Rachel, Captain Smith from Liverpool, bound to Philadelphia, Lat. 39, 6.—September 20, parted with the Ealender, Captain Clark, from Bristol for New-York, Lat. 38, 37. [But bring no Papers later than we have had.]

Long. 12, 36.—Aug. 2, a Ship from Leith for Maryland, out 17 Days; in Lat. 39, 28, Long. 25, 40.—Sept. 15th, spoke a Ship from Cape-Fear for London; Capt. Featherston, out 14 Days, Lat. 38, 36, Long. 58: 00.—Sept. 17, spoke a Sloop from Piscataqua, out 5 Days, with Horses on board, out 5 Days, Lat. 39, 52, Long. 63: 0.—September 23d, spoke a Brig from Amboy for London, Captain Dundan, out two Days, who informed us Sandy Hook, bore N. W. by W. distance 37 Leagues.—The Same Day, spoke a Ship from New-York for London.

We hear that a Packet Boat, from Falmouth, Capt. Goodrich, arrived at the Hook on Tuesday Night, but was not come up, nor the Mail to the Post-Office, last Night at Nine o'Clock. The Vessel we hear is but a dull Sailer, hired by Capt. Goodrich in the Room of the Duke of Cumberland Packet, which was condemn'd as unfit for Service. As we find by the Papers, that this Packet sailed from Falmouth the 23d July, we can have no Advices by it, so late as we have had, which were to the 31st of July.

JOHN MORTON, HAS just received per the Hope, Capt. Davies, from London, a large and beautiful assortment of CHINA WARE, which are opening for sale at his store in Dock-Street.

POETS CORNER.

A RECEIPT how to make L'EAU DE VIE.

Written at the Desire of a LADY.

GROWN old, and grown ſtupid, you juſt think me fit,
To tranſcribe from my grandmother's book a receipt;
And a comfort it is to a wight in diſtreſs,
He's of ſome little uſe—but he can't be of leſs.
Were greater his talents,—you might ever command
His head,—("that's worth nought,") then, his heart and his hand,
So your mandate obeying, he ſends you, d'ye ſee,
The genuine receipt to make L'eau de la Vie.
Take ſeven large lemons, and pare them as thin
As a wafer, or, what is yet thinner your ſkin;
A quart of French brandy, or rum is ſtill better;
(For you ne'er in receipts ſhould ſtick cloſe to the letter)
Six ounces of ſugar next take, and pray mind,
The ſugar muſt be the beſt double refin'd;
Boil the ſugar in near half a pint of ſpring water,
In the neat ſilver ſauce-pan you bought for your daughter;
But be ſure that the ſyrup you carefully ſkim,
While the ſcum, as 'tis call'd, riſes up to the brim;
The fourth part of a pint you next muſt allow
Of new milk, made as warm as it comes from the cow.
Put the rinds of the lemon, the milk and the ſyrup.
With the rum, in a jar, and give 'em a ſtir up:
And, if you approve, you may add ſome perfume;
Goa-ſtone, or whatever you like in its room,
Let it ſtand thus three days,—but remember to ſhake it;
And the cloſer you ſtop it, the richer you make it.
Then filter'd thro' paper, 'twill ſparkle and riſe,
Be as ſoft as your lips, and as bright as your eyes.
Laſt, bottle it up, and believe me the Vicar
Of E—— himſelf ne'er drank better liquor:
In a word it excels by a million of odds,
The Nectar your ſiſter preſents to the Gods.

LINES on the fall of the JESUITS.

WHAT was the Jeſuits' aim, and what their plan?
The ſame as as Satan's was, the fall of Man;
The ſame as —'s, fallen Man to guide,
The ſame as —'s on fallen Man to ride;
For there's a ſameneſs in ſuch great folks all,
To riſe, the cauſe—the conſequence,—to fall.

LONDON, July 14.

A Letter from Wilna, in Lithuania, June 13 ſays, "The deputation of the General Confederacy, formed in this Duchy, takes upon itſelf a very extenſive authority. It has ordered the truſtees of the effects of Prince Charles de Radzivil, to give an account of their adminiſtration. We can't ſufficiently admire the viciſſitude of human affairs: It is but a few years ſince the Ruſſian troops made war againſt that Prince, and obliged him to quit his country; now they have brought him home again, and ſupport and protect him. Prince Repnin, ambaſſador from Ruſſia, has lately made a preſent of a ſuperb table ſervice of plate to Prince Radzivil.

Letters from Verſailles, dated July 1, ſay, "An officer is arrived here from Morocco, ſent by the Count de Breugnon, the King's ambaſſador there, with advice of a peace having been concluded with the Emperor Muley Mahomet. This treaty was ſigned the 30th of May laſt, when all the French ſlaves, without exception, were ſet at liberty, and the three ſhips that were taken by the Moors during the time that this negotiation was carrying on, were reſtored.

Laſt night as Mr. Sampſon was performing one of his feats of horſemanſhip (being on full ſpeed, with his feet out of the ſtirrups and his legs drawn up behind him, and taking a leap in that poſition) the mare he was riding on, miſſing the leap, forced her knees againſt the pole; by which accident the pole broke, Mr. Sampſon was thrown a conſiderable diſtance over the head of the mare, but received very little hurt. The mare in her fall diſlocated her neck, and died in a few minutes.

A letter from Genoa, dated May 23, ſays, "A French xebeck arrived here yeſterday from Toulon, freighted with money for this city; by the crew of which we are informed, that four men of war, two frigates, and a new xebeck are arming in that port; but their deſtination is not publicly known."

They write from Warſaw of the 17th ult. that the court of chancery there is occupied in diſpatching the univerſalia for convoking the extraordinary diet on the 5th of October. It is, added, that from the temper many of the Palatinates are in, ſome tumults are to be apprehended at the Dietines to be held.

Wedneſday night the wife of Mr. Parkins, cabinet-maker in the Park, Southwark, was ſafely delivered of three fine boys, who are all likely to live: Mrs. Parkins about 17 months ago was brought to-bed of two Girls, who are both living.

PLYMOUTH, JULY 5. We have had ſtormy weather ever ſince Thurſday-laſt, with rain. Never were more promiſing crops than now, and like to be early harveſt, We have no apples, not even ſufficient to make a hogſhead of cyder in a pariſh. Common cyder is now ſold at 21. per hogſhead.

GLOUCESTER, JUNE 9. The fine crops and the excellent condition of grain in general promiſe a moſt plentiful harveſt. Farmers all agree there never was ſo much land ſown with wheat as at preſent; this muſt certainly in a few months reduce the prices. The cold winds have deſtroyed all the proſpect of a hit amongſt the fruit trees in this and the adjacent counties.

JULY 13. We hear that circular letters are iſſuing out from the Regiſter's office to all the clergy of this dioceſe, enjoining them to ſend in a liſt of all Papiſts within their reſpective pariſhes. The ſame meaſures will be perſued throughout the Kingdom. Theſe liſts are to be given in to the Houſe of Lords at the opening of the next ſeſſion.

Edinburgh, July 8. The Univerſity of Edinburgh have conferred the degree of Doctor of Divinity on the Rev. Mr. Wheelock, the Founder and Preſident of the Academy for the Education of Youth.

CHARLES-TOWN, (South-Carolina) Aug. 4.

The following Particulars relating to the deſperate Villains that infeſt our Frontiers, may be depended on as authentic.

July 26. James Tyrrel, John Anderſon, Sill Stoaks, Ja. Stoaks, and one Cornelius, came to the Houſe of James Miller at Turky-creek, and robbed him of all his wearing Apparel, 45 l. in Caſh, and a parcel of Deer-ſkins. The next day, they went to the dwelling of Michael Watſon, and after ranſacking it of every thing worth carrying off, ſet fire to it, as alſo to his wheat and corn: From thence they proceeded to Watſon's father's, in order to do his job, (as they ſaid) but the old man got out of their way. They then went down the road about ten miles, where they met Conrad Elder, driving a waggon, with his family in it, going to his ſettlement at Long Canes, and robbed him of his watch, 140l. in money, and took his wife's ſilver buckles out of her ſhoes, vowing vengeance againſt every perſon that durſt oppoſe them: Upon which, William Watſon, with his father, brother, and two other men, purſued the villains above 30 miles, till they came within half a mile of Robert Ford's houſe, who is ſuppoſed to be one of the party: Here they met Tyrrel and Anderſon, and obliged them to ſurrender, and carried them up to Ford's houſe; when ſome of the gang hollowed out Peace or War, Watſon anſwered Peace; the houſed villains immediately fired on them, killed poor old Watſon, one of his ſons, and another of their party, and knocked down Michael Watſon, who ſoon recovered himſelf, and after diſcharging his piece, drew his knife, and ripped two of them open: This gave the priſoners an opportunity of making their eſcape.

Captain Hays, on hearing of thoſe robbers, ordered out a party of the militia, under the command of Lieut. Skinfield, who went immediately in queſt of them, and a little this ſide Ford's houſe met Tyrrel, who was looking for Anderſon: Lieut, Sinkfield called out to him to ſurrender, which he refuſed, deſiring him to fire away and be d——d; they then fired at him, and brought down one of the moſt barbarous wretches among the whole crew: On going a little farther, they met Ford's boy with ſugar, which he ſaid was to dreſs ſome of the robbers wounds that Anderſon carried off. Night coming on, and Lieut. Sinkfield's party being but eight in number, he thought it adviſeable not to make any farther attempts till reinforced, when he intended to pay Ford and his lodgers a viſit, and if poſſible, to put a ſtop to thoſe cruelties which are daily committed.

Auguſt 24. On the 16th of laſt month, two proclamations were iſſued by his Excellency Gov. Tryon, of North-Carolina,—one of them deſcribing the dividing-line between the lands of that province, and the Cherokee-Indians; requiring all perſons ſettled on Indians lands to remove by the 1ſt of January next; enjoining ſurveyors not to run out any lands within a mile of ſaid dividing-line; requiring traders to take out licences; and recommending a friendly and hoſpitable treatment to all friendly Indians who ſhall or may have buſineſs in the ſettlements—The other, commanding all officers to be aſſiſting in apprehending and bringing to juſtice, the attrocious offenders that have lately infeſted the back parts of all the ſouthern provinces.

There is on the ſaid tract, a ſtrong well, built furnace, with a coal houſe 100 feet long, a good caſting bellows and bridge-houſe. A blackſmith's and carpenter's ſhop, with a good ſaw-mill between two and three hundred yards from the furnace. A dwelling houſe two ſtories high, with three rooms on a floor, and a cellar under the whole, with a large kitchen adjoining: The houſe very pleaſantly ſituated, and commanding an entire view of the furnace, which ſtands upon a large bed of ore; vaſt quantities of which are eaſily raiſed, from ſeveral rich veins already opened, cloſe to the furnace, which is ſupplied with a fine ſtream of water from ſeveral large ponds and brooks plentifully ſtored with a variety of fiſh. The land carriage from the furnace to the North-river is a good road of only five miles, from whence it is fifty to New-York.—There are alſo ſeveral convenient places between the furnace and landing, for erecting forges or griſt-mills, at a moderate expence; a fine range for cattle during the ſummer ſeaſon, and a ſufficient quantity of hay may be made to keep them thro' the winter: There is a great quantity of ore already raiſed, above three hundred loads of coal in the coal-houſe, and 800 cords of wood cut, with a hearth ſtone ready fixed, and new ones eaſily procured from Haverſtraw, a few miles below. In ſhort, the natural advantages of this furnace, reſpecting wood, water, an inexhauſtible quantity of good ore, and ſhort land carriage, are ſuperior to any works on this part of the continent; and only require the attention of a maſter's eye, to produce a very handſome yearly income.
